This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1918 edition. Excerpt: ...the Orders or their other valuable features, and the services they render to Jewish life at large, the members themselves are primarily interested in their insurance and consider that particular feature of paramount importance. In this particular respect, the rendering of the insurance safe and secure, it is of the utmost importance that the Jewish Orders shall be reorganized upon a scientific fraternal rate basis. Some of the organizations have already done so, and a comparison of their status with those who do business under the old system will prove beyond doubt the desirability, nay imperativeness, of all of them doing the same thing. It would be a great pity indeed, if these very useful agencies should continue in their shortsighted, narrow policy, and fail to realize their own crying needs of reform with respect to their insurance features. Public opinion should compel them do so, while there is yet time to do the reorganizing work without any injury to their interests and work. Now it can be done with least interference, and it can be done successfully. Later it will be too late. The future of Jewish Orders and their continued usefulness lies in their own hands. When properly reorganized, and their existence is made secure-and safe, they can be made a splendid coherent force for good in American Jewish life.
